Why Open Source ?

1. OpenSource v/s Closed Source
2. Why companies are switching to Open Source? (And which?)
3. Why should you as join? (or What's in it for you?)

Parameter	Open Source	Closed Source
Cost 	Free For Use and Distribution	Paid
Security 	Secure, Available to Test *	Have to take developer's word
User Experience 	Multiple Developers Perspective	Closed A/B Testing
Source Code Reusability 	Reusable to create any software!	Source Code not available :(

Which all company are investing in this space?

The Giants

And a lot more!

Why should you contribute?

You'll learn to:

1. Collaborate
2. Communicate
3. Deploy real world projects

You'll gain:

1. Experience
2. Contacts
3. Purpose

How to get started?

What are the prerequisites?

How to get started?

1. Setup git (or rarely hg) and Github account
2. Create a demo repo, clone it and get started with git.*
3. Dive straight right in!
Either find a first bug or find an org and search for 'beginner' or 'good-first-issue' (A lot of places have been mentioned at the end of slide deck)
4. Claim and Communicate!

More on git in our git session.*

Different Channels

1. Up For Grabs
2. A lot of projects use labels like beginner, easy, starter, good first bug, low hanging fruit, bitesize, trivial, easy fix, and new contributor on Github.
3. First Timers Only
4. Awesome For Beginners
5. Freecodecamp Blog
6. OpenHatch
7. Good First Bugs
8. Mentored Bugs
9. BugsAhoy

Some new ways
